The Curse Of Lies

Story:

Once upon a time, when the shadow of castles stretched over the valleys, two twins lived, an enchanter and an enchantress, both dedicated guardians of the sacred sanctuary of natural forces.

This sanctuary, blessed by the ancient gods, was a haven of peace where the winds, waters, and lands coexisted in harmony. The guardians carefully watched over this sacred space, preserving the balance of the elements.

One day, while they were trying to create protective magic against the treachery of lies and the tricks of traitors, a tragic event occurred. By invoking forces too powerful, they made a fatal mistake. The sanctuary was struck by a blast of pure magic, and in an instant, it collapsed.

The guardians themselves suffered a crueler fate. They were cursed with an implacable curse: from then on, every word they uttered would either be the purest and most radiant truth or the most insidious and deceptive lie, and they could never choose which.

It is said in ancient grimoires that only one power on earth can break such a curse: the power of mystical flowers. However, these flowers, known as the Flora of Truth, can only be used by assembling the correct combination. Only this harmony can lift the dark sentence that weighs on the guardians and restore the sanctuary.

Be warned, however, an imprudent choice, a poorly chosen flower, and you will suffer the consequences. The guardians will guide you on your journey, but remember: under their curse, their words are not always what they seem.

The Curse:

There are 5 mystical flowers, each with a form and color linked to the forces of nature and which cannot be mixed.

The guardians are struck by the curse of lies.

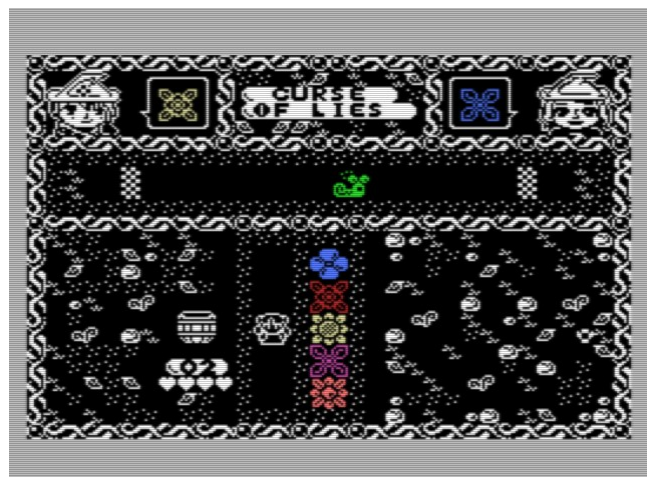

Either they speak the truth, describing a mystical flower that truly exists in both form and color.

Or they lie completely, both about the form and the color of the mystical flower to be found.

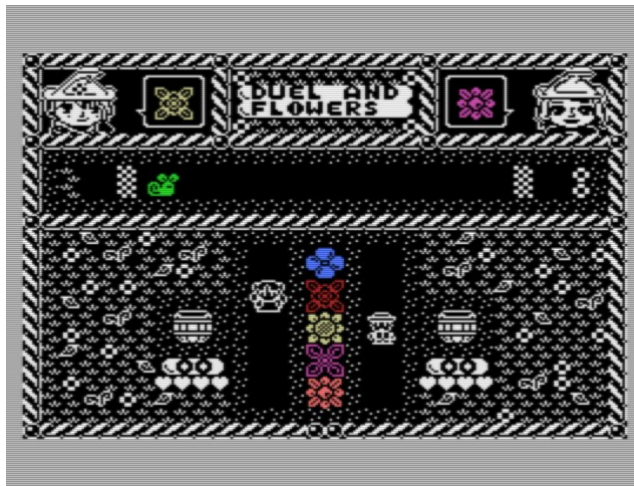

In this case, the first guardian tells the truth because the mystical flower he is proposing really exists, while the second is lying because the mystical flower he is proposing does not exist.

So it's flower 5 that you have to pick up

In this case, the two guardians, under the influence of the curse, are lying.

The mystical flower to choose is neither flower 2 nor flower 4 because of their shapes. It is neither flower 3 nor flower 1 because of their colors. So this is flower 5.

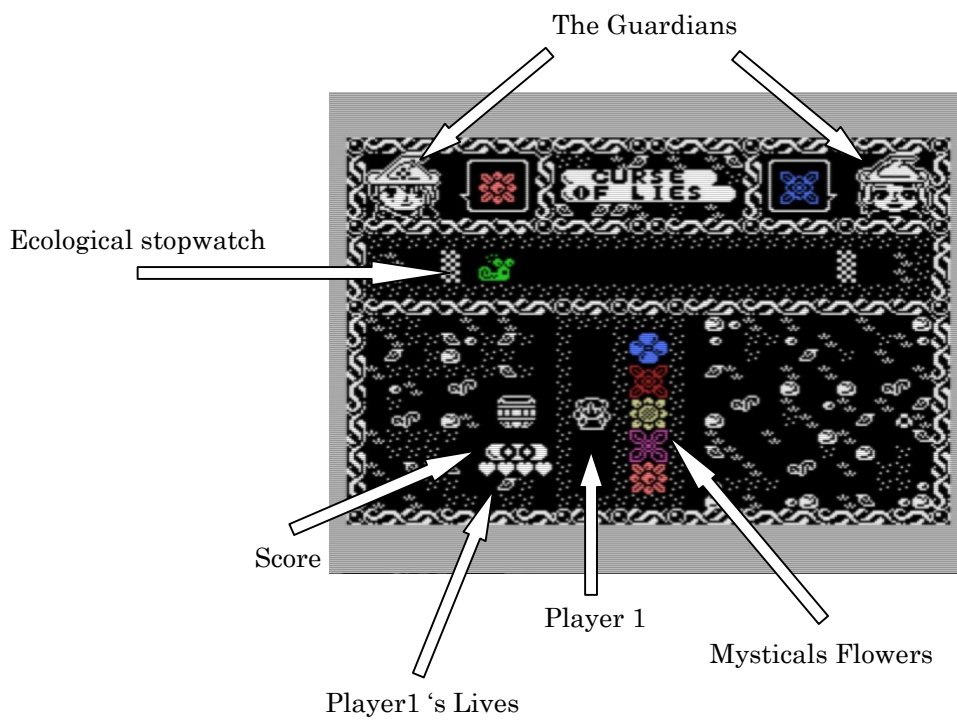

Here is flower 1.

Game Modes:

Single-player campaign:

A brave heroine has been chosen to form the correct combination of mystical flowers. For every 10 flowers collected, the sanctuary is gradually restored. It's your turn to play...
